President Splete addresses fall honor's convocations.

Battling in the trenches to lead the Titans to victory are Dave Martin, Rich McWilliams, and Tim Parish.

Taking a stroll across campus on a beautiful autumn afternoon is a good excuse for a study break for Sue Podojl.

TRIALS AND TRIUMPHS

The sunrise over the field house brings a new day and many new experiences and problems that must be faced.

Our thoughts begin to turn from the days of summer and back to the business of fall when summer's warmth begins to fade gently into autumn's chill, shortening the days and touching the trees with hints of red and gold. It is with mingled regret and excitement that we view our return to Westminster and the forthcoming year.

For some, it will be a year of academic triumphs — nomination to the dean's list and honor's convocations. Others will face the agony of academic trials — failed tests, late nights, and frustrated tears.

Some will realize the triumph of a winning touchdown or a first-prize painting. Some will share both the trials and triumphs associated with entry into a desired sorority, fraternity, or organization. And to all will come the triumph of new found friends and the trials of friends who have gone away.

No one will remain untouched by the new year. All will be immeasurably changed by the trials and triumphs that must be faced in this special year.

Try and Find the Time

No doubt academics are of great importance to all college students, however, they're not everything!! Westminster students always seem to find the time for the little distractions of campus life no matter how much studying there is to be done.

Movies such as "Rocky", "Canonball Run", and "An Officer and a Gentleman", among others, provided entertainment throughout the year. The musical "Oklahoma" delighted sell out crowds in Beeghly Theater for five performances. Also, the Spring concert featured Greg Kihn and Donnie Iris.

An added event that occurs only once every four years is the 1984 Mock Democratic Convention which kept students busy preparing for the three day long event.

Whether it's cheering the Titans on to victory, cramming for a major exam, or hitting the airwaves in the radio station, there is something of interest for everyone.

"Practice makes Perfect" as the saying goes for Dance Theatre members, Jo Ann Cozza and Terri Clark.

Challenge 80's Becomes Reality

Anyone who has ventured as far as the lawn on the east side of Hoyt Science Center must surely have noticed the large mounds of dirt which mar its surface. Inevitably, that same person will wonder how such an eyesore came into existence on the Westminster College campus.

During the early 1970's, Westminster adopted a concept which visualized a complete science resource center, one which would integrate six science disciplines under one roof. With such a center, all of the disciplines could benefit from shared use of classes, added computer capabilities, research and support facilities, and increased library space.

The first part of this Westminster dream was realized in 1974 with the completion of Phase I, the Hoyt Science Center. This building houses the J. S. Mack Science Library as well as facilities for the departments of chemistry, computer science, and mathematics.

A shovelful of dirt and a brief ceremony began the second part of the dream. A ground-breaking ceremony was held October 31, for Phase II. This building will house the departments of biology, physics, and psychology.

"Phase II will have a profound effect on Westminster's ability to provide the science resources necessary to meet the ever changing demands in this area," President Allen Splete said. "This improved teaching and learning center will make a significant difference for our faculty and students in the years ahead. Future plans call for adding a greenhouse and a new planetarium."

However, Robert Lauterbach, Chairman of the Board, best expressed the euphoria associated with realizing a dream when he said, "This is a joyous day in Westminster's history."

HOMECOMING 1983

An Array of Autumn Color

What more could anyone ask for? Brilliant red and gold leaves danced in a blue sky, as Westminster celebrated Homecoming and Parents Weekend on October 15.

Festivities began Friday evening with a lakeside bonfire and pep rally. Anyone who preferred a more sedate form of entertainment could attend the Celebrity Series presentation of "The New American Ragtime Ensemble".

Saturday morning began with the annual Homecoming parade. The streets of New Wilmington were lined with alumni, students, and parents awaiting the bands, floats, and, of course, the Homecoming court.

Following the game, many Westminsterites traveled to the Sheraton Inn. Alumni, faculty, and students crowded into the hospitality rooms for socializing throughout the evening.

1983 Homecoming Queen and Court

Who would have the opportunity of being royalty for a day? This was the question during halftime festivities, as everyone awaited the announcement of Homecoming Queen.

First, the candidates and their escorts were introduced on the field. The court consisted of: Beth Eck — Zeta Tau Alpha, Cindy Carle — Kappa Delta, Angela Ciocca — Independent, Kimberly Ford — Chi Omega, Rebecca Fleming — Sigma Kappa, and Laurie Shupe — Alpha Gamma Delta.

Finally the moment had come for Tracy Elder, the 1982 Homecoming Queen, to pass on her crown. Cheers were heard from the GDI's, as the crown was placed on the head of Angela Ciocca, the 1983 Homecoming Queen.

Scrambling to get a pass off is quarterback Dan Riley.

What was supposed to be a game matching a potent Duquesne running attack and a stalwart Westminster defense, turned out to be nothing more than your average Titan homecoming: A 56-0 Westminster victory.

For the 33rd straight homecoming game, the Westminster Titans came out on top. Not only the offense kept up its end of the billing, but also the defense, as they held the Dukes to under two yards per play.

After a 14 point half-time lead, the Titans came out and opened up their offense to score 42 points. Doug Gouch, Joe Juliano, and Tri-Captain, Lamont Boykins all got in on the scoring act with touchdown passes from Rich Edder and Dan Riley.

The defense was led by Tri-Captains Dan Boes and Scott Higgins, who each had interceptions before leaving the game in the third quarter.

Over 90 players dressed for the game, and most saw action in the second half. The game that was billed as one of the best small college games in Western Pennsylvania turned out to be a typical Titan victory.

Focus on Fashion

From the very moment that Adam and Eve first discovered the multitude of uses for fig leaves, man has not lost his preoccupation with clothing and fashion. Millions of dollars are invested annually in the fashion industry. It often seems that the twentieth century does, indeed, operate under the supposition that "the clothes make the man".

Such is definitely the case for Westminster students. Clothing styles on campus have become a channel through which many choose to express their individuality and, often, their creativity.

Many of the more conservative members of the student body favor the "prep" look. Their tastes run to rugby shirts, chinos, and penny loafers. These "Preppies" prefer clothes decorated with whales, alligators, and argyles. And the onset of the winter months is always the test of the true prep. He is the one who will venture into the sub zero ice storms wearing "Docksiders" without socks!!

However, other members of the college community expressed their individuality through other fashions. The release of the phenomenally popular "Flashdance" engendered a fashion craze of off-the-shoulder sweatshirts and leg warmers. Trade winds from New York and California blew in carrying leather pants and mini skirts.

Even the Westminster men were not immune to the dictators of the fashion world. "Pea Coats" and knee length wool coats became popular for winter wear. Many discovered the treasures gleamed from a shopping trip to the Army-Navy store. And, quite a few Westminster men chose to express their individuality through gold earings.

The styles came and the styles went. Some, like the preppie look, enduring tenaciously; others vanishing too quickly for notice. Whether the tastes be prep or punk . . . Flashdance or funk . . . Army-Navy or sweats . . . Westminster has seen them all.

Celebrity Series

83 — 84

First begun in 1968, the Celebrity Series' stated objective is "to provide the College community and the general public with enriching and educational experiences and exposure to distinguished lecturers and artists from the worlds of knowledge and the fine arts."

The agenda for this years Celebrity Series featured: The New American Ragtime Ensemble, Ferrante and Teicher, Mr. Jack Daniel's Original Silver Cornet Band, The New York City Opera National Company, The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, and A Cole Porter Review. Bryony Starr

This year's convention, held on April 2, 3, and 4, was modeled after the Democratic National Convention to be held in San Francisco this summer. It was scaled to 1:3.5 the actual delegate size allowing 1,142 students to participate. Over the years, the convention has turned into the most prepared for, anticipated, and attended event to hit the campus. Why? Because it combines education with fun. The convention's purpose is to increase student's awareness of the political process, but at the same time, it gives them opportunity to dress up in bizarre costumes, parade around New Wilmington, create humorous slogans, and be as loud, noisy, and rowdy as they'd like! But like all good things, the convention had a beginning and an end and a lot of hard work in between.

The convention's roots go back to April of 1983. The Political Science department announced in the Holcad and Campus Communicator that they were looking for an Executive Chairman for the 12th Mock Convention. When Mark Longietti first saw the announcement, he was not sure what it was all about. After investigation, he decided to apply for the opening. Soon after, he was notified that he had been chosen for the leading position in the convention.

Executive Committee: Seated, Jodi Strand, Tracy Fletcher, Frankie Jo Pacilla, Anne Petersen, Standing, Mr. Frederick Neikirk, Jonathan Bigley, Steve Finney, Mark Longietti, Richard McKenna, Todd Button, Dr. W. T. Nichols.

As Executive Chairman, Mark was in charge of an Executive Committee that would organize the events, coordinate committees, make final decisions, and oversee the progress of the convention. Longietti, along with faculty advisors Dr. W. T. Nichols, Dr. Walter H. Slack, and Mr. Frederick Neikirk, selected Beth Brooks as Vice Chairman; Tracy Fletcher, Secretaryl Todd Button, Treasurer; Tim Griffin and Anne Petersen, Credentials; Franki Jo Pacilla and Jodi Strand, Resolutions; Steve Finney, Public Relations; Jonathan Bigley, Rules; and John Kruiselbrink and Rich McKenna, Physical Arrangements.

After the Executive Committee was formed, the remainder of the spring term was devoted to two concerns. First on the agenda, was finding a keynote speaker for the convention. The search took top priority for the time being, and it was not until October that any definite arrangements were made. When Senator Biden was contacted, their worries were over. Biden was interested in speaking at the College and could schedule to be at Westminster early in April.

An increased flow of intercampus mail began giving the mailroom a small indication of what was to follow. Fliers went out announcing the need for a Presiding Chairman and Campaign Managers. The Presiding Chairman was the last of the executive positions to be filled. The choice of Gary Clark proved to be a wise one for residing Chairman. Chosen as campus campaign managers were Bruce Bartoo for John Glenn, Robin DeWalt for George McGovern, Jay Laczkowski for Gary Hart, Bob Keaton for Jesse Jackson, and Mike Lobalzo for Walter Mondale.

While the campaign managers were busy planning speeches and other campaign tactics, the credentials committee was reading through stacks of applications in an attempt to select 57 chairman for the state delegations.

As the new year began, so did the excitement and electricity of the convention. By the end of January, the convention had turned into a campus-wide event with the appearance of posters and fliers advertising candidates' qualifications and ideas.

In the midst of all of the campaigning, lobby talks were held in each of the dorms and fraternity houses. To arouse interest in the convention, the 1980 Evening Magazine clip was shown, questions were answered, and enthusiasm heightened. The Credentials Committee held delegate registration in the Student Union Building. Convention propaganda and encouraging words from friends and professors motivated nearly 930 students to register. Twenty-two faculty members joined the fun and signed up as Kentucky delegates.

As the time wound down to the convention, last minute meetings were held to finalize plans. Excitement and energy were in the air on Monday, April 2, as the campus got ready for the opening session of the Mock Convention. For several weeks, the Bookstore had been busy selling poster board, markers, and paint, and suddenly imaginative banners and signs appeared. At 3:30 p.m. the Memorial Field House filled with anxious delegates while Presiding Chairman Gary Clark called the first session to order. The roll call of states followed and the creativity of Westminster's minds came shining through. The remainder of the afternoon was spent approving Rules, Credentials, and Executive Committee reports.

Monday evening's parade turned out to be main attractions of the convention. A colorful display of islanders, gangsters, Hershey kisses, potatoe sacks, and pigs proudly passed through the streets of New Wilmington. Hawaii presented Westminster's own luau queen, Indiana had Michael Jackson on hand, Texas built a miniature oil well for the occasion, and New Jersey brought to life a Monopoly Board.

Once all delegations arrived at the field house, the second session was opened with the gravel. The roll call kept spirits high as each state tried to out do its predecessor's slogan. The walls of the campus "convention Center" were covered with state banners such as "Pennsylvania The State of Confusion," "Oklahoma's OK," "Delaware The State that Started the Nation," "Live Free or Die," (New Hampshire), and "Wouldn't you like to be a Virgin, Too?" (The Virgin Islands).

The '84 convention wrapped up on Wednesday with the main event being the nomination of Jesse Jackson as Vice Presidential candidate. Awards were given to Laczkowski for the winning campaign manager and best nominating speech. Bob Keaton won for the best campus campaign, and Arkansas received the award for the most colorful delegation.

The 1984 Mock Democratic National Convention is now part of Westminster's past, and, for everyone involved, it will always be an enjoyable memory and an unforgettable experience.

Battle of the Bulge

I'm FAT and so the Diet begins!!! You decided today no more cookies, no more desserts, bread, potatoes, noodles, ONLY SALADS!!! This diet is the last one you will ever go on. You will succeed in loosing that ugly cellulose; that gross flab! You will trim that flab off with a daily excercise routine that consists of ONLY 150 push-ups, 200 sit-ups, running 12 miles, and a Jane Fonda Workout. You smell the pizza and the popcorn popping, but YOU have the WILL POWER to say NO.

You sit at the desk and begin to list how YOUR new daily schedule will go:

- 3 a.m. Jane Fonda
- 4 a.m. run 6 miles
- 5 a.m. 200 situps
- 5:30 150 pushups
- 6 a.m. shower and dress for class
- 7 a.m. Breakfast
  - ½ grapefruit or SAGA glass of juice
  - 5 glasses of water
  - 1 piece of dry toast
  - 1 SAGA cup of coffee or tea
- 8 a.m. class
- 9 a.m. class
- 10 a.m. yoga
- 11 a.m. watch the "Price is Right"
- 12 a.m. Lunch
  - ½ piece of fruit
  - 6 glasses of water
  - 4 salads (no dressing, only vinegar)
  - 1 glass of skim milk
- 1 p.m. class
- 2 p.m. relax
- 3 p.m. class
- 4 p.m. soap opera
- 5 p.m. Dinner
- 6 p.m. homework (I know I will get an A)
- 9 p.m. run 6 miles
- 10 p.m. get ready for and go to bed

You become excited! The schedule is made and YOU, the next sexy poster star, is here to stay. You close the door to your room and get ready for bed. You set your alarm for 3 a.m. and climb into bed. Although restless at first, you soon fall into a deep sleep.

Bzzzzzzz! the ALARM goes off, it's 3 A.M.!!! You hit the snooze button . . . the battle will begin tomorrow.

Sig Kaps Lori Quindlen, Marie DiRenzo, and Becky Fleming perform during Greek Sing N' Swing.

For one week each Spring, Westminster's five fraternities and sororities get together in fun and competition to unify the Greek system. The Zeta Fun Run kicked off this year's Greek Week on Sunday, April 29, with 25 runners participating in the race. Later that evening, Greeks ushered at vespers. A fireworks show followed the service. Throughout the week, Greeks exchanged letter shirts and wore their own. They spent the afternoons playing speedball and softball. Down by the amphitheater, on Friday afternoon, a pig roast was held.

Saturday and Sunday were busy days for everyone, as it was Parents Weekend and May Day. On Saturday afternoon, Zeta, Beth Eck was crowned May Queen, and Sig Kaps held their annual Strawberry Social.

Saturday night brought the main event for the sororities — Sing N' Swing. This year's theme was musical groups. Awards were presented for musicality and overall effect, as well as to the Greek God and Goddess. This year the Alpha Gams won for musicality and the Kappa Deltas took the overall honors.

Almost $160 was raised for the March of Dimes in the elections for God and Goddess. Alpha Sig, Drew Zinck and Zeta, Elaine Jochen collected the most, therefore were chosen God and Goddess.

The Blood drive, originally scheduled during Greek Week was postponed until the following Tuesday. The turnout was good, and 180 pints were donated to the Lawrence County Blood Bank.

Are You A Party Animal?

The American Heritage Dictionary, every student's companion, defines a "party" as "a social gathering for pleasure, amusement, or the life." Such a definition leaves the field wide open to interpretation, and college students are notorious for devising means of "pleasure, amusement, or the like". In fact, one of the most frequent phrases on the Westminster campus was the ever popular "Let's party!"

The simplest parties were those held in individual rooms. Often spur-of-the-moment get togethers, featuring refreshments ranging from popcorn and pop to hard-core refreshments. Entertainment at these parties was usually provided by someone's stereo.

Greek parties were rated among the more creative of student bashes. "Smokers" and rush parties were chances for hopeful pledges to learn about their prospective fraternity or sorority.

Theme parties are a tradition on the Westminster campus, particularly among fraternities. Events such as the Theta Chi Tunnel Party, the Phi Kappa Tau Hot Tub Party, and the Sigma Phi Epsilon Slave Auction earned popularity among students.

Catch Some Attention

Contrary to popular belief, dating does exist on campus. When you're sitting in your room ALONE, on Friday and Saturday night, it's hard to believe. But, all you have to do is look around you. Whether it's a trip up town for pizza or a formal date, it's still a date.

There are lots of places on campus where the favorite past time of scoping takes place. The cafeteria, TUB, and fraternity parties are just a few places. The guys watch the girls, and the girls watch the guys.

Now, all you have to do is get the interest of the other person.

The Year in a Glance

The country felt a major shock as some 300 peace-keeping Marines died because a Kamikaze truck rode into their barracks and exploded in Beirut, Lebanon. We also saw more action when we invaded the small island of Granada with the intent of rescuing the Americans who had not been allowed to leave since Granada's coup had taken over. Worry also fell over the U.S. as the El Salvador death squad's activities hit the presses.

The AIDS syndrome stymied the medical profession, killing many. Christmas shopping became almost deadly with the craze of parents shopping for the "cute" toy called the "CABBAGE PATCH DOLLS". The country watched and wondered at the death of Andropov and the installation of Chernenko as head of the U.S.S.R. Many mourned the deaths of entertainer Karen Carpenter and newswoman Jessica Savage.

The Government broke up the monopoly of AT&T, and Standard Oil of California bought Mobil Oil with T. Boone Pickens earning millions from the deal. The deficit loomed in our minds as the dollar rose again to new heights.

The Olympics were a highlight as we came home with Gold in skiing (Phil Mahre, Debbie Armstrong) and skating (Scott Hamilton). Silver was also seen in skiing (Christine Cooper, Steve Mahr) and skating (Rosalynn Sumners, Kitty and Peter Caruthers).

We watched history being made as the first woman and black man soared to the moon.

Singers, Boy George and Michael Jackson hit the top of the charts, while the phrase "Where's the Beef" was heard around the world.

Walt Disney opened another billion dollar amusement park, this time named Epcot Center.

A Greater Pain

A bucket of ice, a pair of crutches, a tapped ankle, not exactly the type of things you associate with an athlete. That's because this article doesn't deal with the glory of success, but the pain of human limitations. We can all relate to the successes of athletes, the last second jump shot, the spike that wins the game, and the saving tackle on fourth and one. However, the thought of what we would do if we could not play rarely crosses our mind. But for some athletes, a sudden accident forces us to think of this very thing.

Although the injuries are seldom life threatening, they do have a major effect on the athletes involved. Sitting out games, and acting as a spectator, instead of a participant, is not an easy task. The patience required in waiting for an injury to heal is great. A healthy athlete, although not always asked to perform, is capable of contributing when asked. But an injured athlete is required to sit and watch, waiting until he or she too can contribute.

It is not an easy situation to be in. But as we all must learn, things don't always turn out the way we would like them to.

So, hats off to those who have been injured and recovered, and a smile of understanding to those still recovering.

of Sharing

Enthusiastic hugs and warm greetings marked the beginning of another successful Festival of Sharing in November. About 40 residents from Polk Institute for the Mentally Retarded spent the afternoon with their hosts and hostesses participating in arts and crafts, singing, horseback riding, swimming, and playing volleyball and basketball.

When the activities were through, most of the students and their new friends shared Thanksgiving Dinner in Russell Dining Hall, and then attended a wonderful concert in the chapel.

For some students, it was their first time dealing with the mentally retarded. Due to the fact, there was nervousness in the air before the Polk residents arrived. We were reassured by Dean Nickerson that all we needed to do was be ourselves and show a lot of love.

As the day progressed, I know we all learned to do more than show love; we felt it. The success of the day, and the new relationships, could be seen on everyone's face. The rewards were many for all who organized, helped with, and participated in the Festival of Sharing.

HO! — HO! — HO!

She mutters to herself, "What could be worse than having a final on the last day of finals, especially this year, since finals end just three days before Christmas." Where are you suppose to go Christmas shopping?

Only a half an hour ago, she bid good-bye to a carload of laughing, excited friends headed for home. The campus seemed to echo with silence.

"What dumb luck!" She couldn't pack, that had been finished two days ago, all that remained were a few pieces of tinsel and several red and green Christmas balls stuck to the window. They would come down last, in a desperate attempt to spark some Christmas spirit.

There wasn't even studying to do. Time had hung so heavily on her hands that she had resorted to studying for entertainment.

Finally, the big exam was conquered, and it was time to load up the car and head out the parking lot. As the miles slipped beneath the car's wheels, she muttered beneath her breath, "MERRY CHRISTMAS — HO! — HO! — HO!"

Making Your Move!

It's September and time to move to college. Your most valuable assets, the stereo, the refrigerator, the television, and the popcorn popper are all packed in the car. The heavy overstuffed suitcases are to the point of bursting, but you know you can fit one more thing in there.

Mom and Dad squeeze in the car while you sit between them holding a lamp in one hand and a typewriter in the other. The miles begin to pass beneath the car, and the closer you get the more anxious you become. It's time to greet old friends and make new ones. You can't wait to tell everyone about your exciting summer.

You arrive at the dorm and file out of the car. Trip after trip to the third floor, and the car finally is emptied. You walk Mom and Dad to the car and kiss them goodbye. You return to the disastrous room. You fall on the bed and stare in amazement of how many things that must be arranged. You decide to finish tomorrow.

During April and May, an amazing phenomenon occurs on the Westminster campus. The increase in temperature is matched proportionately to a decrease in class attendance. A professor, surveying the empty desks which await his lecture, might be led to wonder, "Where have all the students gone . . . ?"

Yet that self-same professor need only look out the window of his classroom to discover the answer to that question. As the days grow warmer, the campus begins to assume the air of a Florida beach, and its students begin to assume the air of Florida beach bums.

All Decked Out

From the first moment that the winter chill begins to break, students shed woolen skirts and pants for bikinis and beach towels. The lawn in front of Shaw Hall, the Galbreath sundeck, and the shores of Britain Lake soon become favored areas for avid sun worshippers and avid girl-watchers.

However, the women are not the only ones attracted by the lure of the sun. Westminster's "beaches" are populated by men and women alike — in all shapes and sizes.

What does it matter that summer vacation is still two months away? What does it matter that finals still loom ahead? What does it matter that professors tear at their hair and threaten dire consequences? . . . As long as there are sun and students, no one can keep them apart.

Giving It His All

When an athletic team takes to the field or the court, they must be prepared to contribute both mentally and physically. One individual who has spent the past four years encouraging and helping Westminster athletes is Senior Chuck Zagorski. Chuck has filled the voluntary position of student athletic trainer all of his four years Westminster. When asked why he would volunteer to do such a job, he simply replied, "Cause I love it".

Chuck came to Westminster from Quigley High School with his eye on a degree in Business Administration. He had spent four years at Quigley as trainer and decided to continue in college. His official duties include Football trainer and manager for four years, Women's Basketball trainer for three years, Men's Basketball trainer for one year, and Women's Softball trainer for one year. He's also helped out in all sports. His unofficial duties were that of counselor, confident, and friend.

When asked what he has received for his efforts, Chuck replied, "The people I've met and the places I've been have been very special". Above all, he values the friends he has made. His only regret is that he did not get involved with the Women's athletic teams sooner.

Not only has Chuck lettered every year, but he has earned the respect of those he's worked with. So now, as Chuck leaves Westminster with his degree in hand and his memories in heart, we must say "Thanks Chuck".

The many long hours spent rehearsing for the Theatre Westminster production of Oklahoma proved beneficial during five sell-out performances.

Over 60 students participated on stage, as well as behind stage. However the excitement did not end with the final curtain, the cast represented the state of Oklahoma in the 1984 Mock Democratic Convention.

Although Theatre Westminster also produced Holy Ghosts and The Miracle Worker during the year, Oklahoma was the most memorable.

WOW — look at those legs! With Spring break only weeks away, thoughts of sunny days and warm sandy beaches preoccupied many of Westminster's brilliant minds. The lucky group of students heading South had been anxiously awaiting the fun that was ahead of them, and in anticipation, bathing suits were dug up from winter storage spaces. But suddenly happy faces fell and worried looks took their places with deep signs and growling stomachs, massive dieting, and exercising soon began.

However, as cottage cheese and lettuce became the best bets at Saga, there was one group of young "women" totally unaffected by the craze. They didn't give a second thought to the idea. How could they go wrong in Fort Lauderdale when they had been selected to be in the Miss Titan Pageant on campus.

On April 13, the day before Spring break officially began, eight of Westminster's finest "specimens" put on their bathing suits a little early, to dazzle a fairly large crowd in Orr Auditorium for the Miss Titan '84 Pageant.

The show supported by Pan-hel and organized and operated by Sigma Kappa, displayed the poise and charm of Miss A.I.R., Don Belsterling; Miss Alpha Gamma Delta, Wade Smedley; Miss Jeffers, John Landolfi; Miss Kappa Delta, Rich Edder; Miss Lambda Sigma, Paul Steinke; Miss Sigma Phi Epsilon, Guy Cubellis; Miss Sigma Kappa, Jerry Falco; and Miss Zeta Tau Alpha, Scott Higgins.

While they modeled their bathing suits, each contestant was introduced by the evening's Master of Ceremonies, Dr. Bill McTaggart. After their amusing arrivals, the candidates were rated on a scale of one to ten by judges, Dean Jerry Boone, Dean Mary Dorsey, and Liz Shear. A quick change was made, the "girls" reappeared in their casual dress wear to be questioned by Dr. McTaggart. Following a second rating, scores were totaled and an excited Miss Jeffers, John Landolfi, was named Miss Titan '84. Also, Miss Zeta Tau Alpha, Scott Higgins was named Miss Congeniality.

Do you get much SNOW?

Stephanie Skarlis and Beth Eck walk to class in the snow.

Snow, Does it snow very much? This question is often asked by many new students not familiar with this area. Well, the answer is definitely YES!

December through March, the campus is usually covered with a blanket of white snow. This blanket provides a great outlet for students to take out their mid-year frustrations.

Whether it's skating on the lake, skiing around the campus, or traying by Russell, you can find time to enjoy the snow. If nothing else, you can always have a snowball fight with yur your roommate.

Tom Cocain and Chris Martuccio now have an excuse to get a little closer under the umbrella.

What could be worse than waking up on a Monday morning and to have it rain? It's bad enough that it's Monday but rain too, that's to much to bear.

Spring is another word for rain in Western Pennsylvania. While all want those sunny days to work on their tans for Spring break, there just aren't that many chances.

One must learn to plan and dress for those rainy days. The sun may be shining when you leave for class, but by the time you return it may be raining cats and dogs.

A First Class Act

Professors, they're definitely a special breed. Their teaching methods and individual whims are an endless source of fascination and amusement for college students. No doubt professors provide the many memories and stories for future years. They provide the material and fuel for countless dinner conversations, letters to Mom and Dad, and muttered curses. After one day of classes, a student comments, "I knew I was in trouble when I sat down, and the professor informed me that I was already three chapters behind".

But contrary to popular belief, professors really are people too. All you have to do is give them a chance. A professor can be a friend as well as an instructor.

Patrick McCarthy and his wife enjoy skiing around the campus.

The Choice Is Yours

Organizations, what are they all about? They provide an outlet for student's interests and hobbies, and also the opportunity to meet and work with other people.

Although students complain of boredom, the many organizations offer the opportunity to pursue social, as well as, academic endeavors. There are students that wish not to participate, but if you want to be active, the problem of finding time to study soon arises.

With all the organizations that there are on campus, there surely is one that fits your interest. The choice is yours to make.

Centennial Year for Holcad!

For over 100 years, the Holcad has been a Westminster tradition. Begun in June of 1884 as a literary and news magazine, the Holcad was first published by a student staff of nine. Since that time, the Holcad has seen numerous changes in the campus, in the college administration, even in its own publication. The only thing that has not changed has been its role as voice of the student body.

At times, that role has been a difficult, often controversial, one. In 1954, the Holcad stirred up another hornet's nest when Marilyn Strub was dismissed from her editorship position by the paper's faculty advisors. It was alleged that she had been critical of the administration and had resisted efforts to control the paper's content. The paper was temporarily "shut down", yet only one issue was not published on time.

At another time in 1979, the Holcad staff was responsible for removing 140 books from McGill Library in the space of one hour. This stunt was an effort to demonstrate the need for tighter library security, yet it stirred up a great deal of attention.

Yet, as the Holcad celebrated its 100th anniversary, its dedication seemed undimmed. Its commitment to its role as voice of the student body has only been strengthened by the years.

Anything Goes

The Mermaid show was filled with a variety of musical presentations and titled "Anything Goes". The show was presented March 15-17 in the Natatorium with a special presentation on Parent's Weekend.

Selections such as the "Theme from Hillstreet Blues", "Superman", and the song "Anything Goes" were used in the show.

Several men worked with the president of the Mermaids, Alicia Slade, to perfect a routine to "Superman". The men were, Tim Griffin, Dennis Hazel, Dennis Ivell, Mike Logan, Ken Romig, Neal Smith, and Bob Van Horn. Although men have traditionally worked with the women in the show, they had never before performed an entire routine themselves.

Two acts were particularly special this year. One, which was choreographed by Slade, was performed by her and her brother. Seniors Kathy Hast and Pat McAndrew swam to the "Theme from Romeo and Juliet". Hast choreographed the routine while a slide presentation show during the routine came from some of McAndrew's art work.

Practice Makes Perfect

Ending pose for dance in Orr Auditorium.

In case you haven't noticed the number of girls wearing the popular "Flashdance" attire at dinner on Thursday nights, I'd like to call your attention to them.

Every Thursday evening at 6:00 p.m., the dance studio is filled with girls anxious to stretch and practice their gift of dance. First Mrs. Chris Cobb, dance instructor, stretches the girls out to warm up before practice. After warm-ups, they proceed to learn various styles of dance.

Not only on Thursday nights, but just about every night of the week, there is at least one dance practice for a number to be performed in the show.

Although the show isn't until Spring, Dance Theatre begins preparations the first week of classes. First girls volunteer to choreograph, then tryouts are held for each particular dance. The girls are chosen and practice begins.

During the past four years, Dance Theatre has come from a small dance demonstration in the dance studio to a major production in Orr Auditorium. Hopefully, dance will continue to grow here at Westminster.

You've Come Along Way Baby

The conception of Mortar Board occurred in 1915 on the University of Chicago campus. It was an honorary society for senior women and its primary purpose was "to promote and advance the status of women." Not until 1976 were male students members of Mortar Board. Due to Title IX, delegates voted to open membership to men. Therefore, the purpose of the organization had to be reaffirmed "to emphasize the advancement of the status of women", as well as, "to promote equal opportunity among all people."

Along with a Q.P.A. of 3.1, qualifications include significant achievements and contributions in scholarship, leadership, and service. Mortar Board provided a pizza sale during finals, and supplied all-night desksitters on weekends in the female dorms. Also, Mortar Board attended functions with other local chapters of the National Mortar Board Organization.

The "Tens" 20th

Westminster College puts a great deal of emphasis on tradition and the New Wilming-Tens Women's Vocal Ensemble is no exception. This year, the Tens marked their twentieth anniversary and chances are good that the group will continue representing Westminster at area churches and other social functions for many years to come.

As with many organizations, the "Tens" have not been immune to change. In the group's earliest days, the turn-out for auditions numbered sixty plus. This number has decreased quite a bit — this year's group could have been named The Wilming-Nine. However, as the old cliche goes, quantity is not always quality.

Happy Anniversary Tens!!

Alive and Well

John Wade addresses students on journalism.

The academic year has been a period of rebirth for the Society for Collegiate Journalists at Westminster. Having died twice before, the chapter was reestablished with the determination to have a long life. During this first year, SCJ sponsored several activities, the majority of which were hosting guest speakers from the various fields in journalism.

SCJ began the year with guest speaker John Wade, the co-host of KDKA TV's talkshow, Pittsburgh 2-day. He spoke on topics in his field of broadcast journalism, such as commercial production, interviewing techniques and the Pittsburgh television market. In spite of being the first attempt by a new organization, the presentation was an incredible success.

The second featured speaker was Phil Musick, a general columnist for the Pittsburgh Press. Having worked also for USA Today, Musick was able to speak on the national newspaper versus the local newspaper. He also talked about writing a daily column and gave advice on beginning a career in journalism.

During the Holcad's 100th anniversary dinner, the Westminster Society for Collegiate Journalists was recognized as an official chapter connected with the national office, and the new members were inducted.

One certainly cannot accuse the fraternities or sororities on campus of being inactive. Throughout the year, they have a busy schedule of events with their activities encompassing everything from parties to fundraising activities.

The Sigma Kappa sorority planned several philanthropic activities. At Halloween, they collected for UNICEF. Later, they held a clothing drive to benefit the Maine Sea Coast Mission, enabling the collected clothing to be given to the underprivileged. Other activities in which the Sig Kaps participated, included the Miss Titan contest, which they co-sponsored with Pan-Hel, and their annual Strawberry Social which was held on Parent's Day.

The Taste of Competition

Nowhere are trials and triumphs more evident than in the sporting world. Every time an athlete steps into the playing arena, he must face the reality of trials and triumphs or trials and defeat. No matter who ends up on top, it is the taste of competition that excites every athlete.

Both men and women at Westminster have seen the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat. Whether it is making the final foul shot or missing an extra point, the Titans always give one hundred percent.

Everyone remembers the cheers that are heard, but no one thinks of the time and dedication that is necessary to train and prepare for competing. All must be commended for their efforts no matter what the outcome.

Women's Field Hockey

A Final Farewell

Coach Haas patiently prepares before a game.

To many people, success can only be measured in how much attention you receive or how often you win. But, to the Women's Field Hockey Team, success means working together and having fun. Even though they finished the season with a record of 0-8, it cannot be said that they had a losing season. Assistant Athletic Director, Marjorie Walker explained that she felt the team was a consistently friendly and hardworking group of women. Those who participated, always gave one hundred percent.

Unfortunately, the number of participants have been steadily decreasing over the past five years, and even though the field hockey team is the oldest women's sport at Westminster, the lack of participation necessitates dropping the program. Miss Walker explained that the decision was a very hard one for those involved, but eventually became a necessary one.

As for the players, it was a tough loss, the toughest of all their seasons here. The seniors this year are Sandy Morrell, Ruth Gilliland, and Sherri Walker. Morrell, who was also a tri-captain with Walker and junior Kathy Geruldsen, felt that even though she was graduating, the loss of the team is a big disappointment for her. Unfortunately, it is a necessary disappointment.

So, to all those who have come out and given their best for the Women's Field Hockey Team, Westminster says thanks for a job well done and issues a final, sad farewell.

Volleyball Team

gains experience for next season.

Warming up before a game are Lisa Pillo, Lynn Wollenberg, and Laura Turner.

The Women's Volleyball team finished their season with a record of 8-17. The team, although talented, was plagued with inconsistency. However, several players had an outstanding year. Senior Lisa Pillo, team captain, had an excellent year on the back line and as a spiker. She was complimented by Coach Marjorie Walker for playing in every game of her four year career as a team member. Pillo earned a position on the Second Team All District in the NAIAW District 18, for her accomplishments. Junior Becky Edwards also did an excellent job as a spiker and was a fine all around contributor to the team. She also received special recognition by being named to the First Team All District in the NAIAW District 18 and to the Second Team All Conference in the Women's Keystone Conference. The only other senior on the team, Bess Wilson, did a fine job as a setter, as did freshman Beth Watkins.

Coach Walker felt that this year, though not as successful as past years, was a good year for gaining experience. No doubt, the nine returning lettermen will use this experience and, hopefully, have a consistently successful team for next year.

Women's Tennis Team captures NAIAW District 18 Title

The Women's Tennis team finished an outstanding season with an overall record of 6-4. A district record of 3-0 enabled them to win the NAIAW District 18 Title.

Coach Irene Walters felt that there were several people who deserved recognition for their participation. Seniors Mary Curran, Sandy Gonzalez, and Kirsten Pealstrom were three outstanding players. Curran and Pealstrom compiled a record of 3-4 in doubles and earned a spot on the Second Team All-Conference doubles in the Women's Keystone Conference. Pealstrom, who had a record of 7-4 in singles, earned a position on the Fourth Team All-Conference Team. Gonzalez earned herself two honors this season, the first, a position on the NAIAW District 18 First Team for singles, and the second, on the NAIAW District 18 First Team for doubles. She also excelled in the Women's Keystone Conference and earned a position on the first team singles and doubles.

Freshmen standouts were Heather Swank and Kristin LaBombard. Swank earned a position alongside Gonzalez on the first team doubles for both the Conference and the District. Coach Walters pointed out LaBombard's excellent record of 10-1 in singles which placed her on the Fifth Team All-Conference. She also made the Third Team All-Conference doubles alongside junior Becky Gladden.

Coach Walters was very happy with the season and the team. She is looking forward to another year of success.

There was never any doubt about it, they were Playoff Bound

Winning football seasons at Westminster are a tradition, and 1983 was no exception.

The Titans posted an impressive 9-2 record and made their third consecutive appearance in the NAIA National Championship Playoffs.

It all began on August 26, when the Titans reported to camp for three intense weeks of conditioning and learning, to prepare for a home opener with the Thiel Tomcats.

After leading only 7-0 at halftime, Coach Fusco unleashed the offense to tame the gutsy Tomcats and capture a 35-7 victory.

The following week, the Titans traveled to Adrian, Michigan to battle the nationally ranked NCAA Division III Adrian Rams. This proved to be the first test for the Titans.

The Titans defense was stunning as they prevented the Rams from scoring in a goalline situation. Also, Adrian challenged the 13-10 score late in the fourth quarter, when Sam Greenwood intercepted a pass to stop the Rams offense.

The next stop on the schedule took the Titans to nearby Grove City College for the final game of a long lasting rivalry. This provided the extra incentive to prepare for the game. However, the Grovers were predicting an upset on their homecoming, and at halftime, the Titans were behind 3-0. But, much to the dismay of the Grovers, the Tians pulled together their offense and racked up a 24-3 final score.

The following week, the Titans returned home to take on Indiana University of Pennsylvania. The Titans had topped the Indians 3-0 the previous season with a controversial, last second field goal. IUP came to town looking for revenge, but the Titans dominated once again and put together a stellar performance and notched their fourth and most rewarding victory.

The Titans welcomed Duquesne University to Memorial Field, putting a streak of 32 consecutive homecoming victories on the line. With ease, the Titans cruised to a 56-0 victory increasing the streak to 33 straight.

On the road again, the Titans traveled to Waynesburg to take on the Yellow Jackets. For the first time this year, the Titans had the opportunity to play in the rain, but this didn't hinder them in any way. The Titans posted a stunning 20-2 victory. Now at 6-0, the Titans faced Geneva College at home. In a vicious, hard hitting game, Coach Fusco used the basics of his game plan to lead the Titans to a 17-6 victory, a moral victory for the Tornados.

Now the Titans with a perfect slate, traveled to Clarion University of Pennsylvania. This NCAA Division II powerhouse was ranked eighth in the nation. The Titans had finally met their match and came up on the short end of the stick. The 24-13 loss dropped the Titans from second to eighth in the NAIA National rankings.

With one game remaining in the regular season, the Titans came home to entertain Frostburg State College of Maryland. A confident Frostburg team was determined to extinguish any chance the Titans may have for a playoff bid. The Titans, on the other hand, had other ideas. On the bitter cold Saturday afternoon, the Titans streaked to a 42-10 victory and completed an exciting 8-1 regular season record.

It was a Dirty Job, but Someone had to Do It.

In the first round of the playoffs, the Titans traveled to Findlay, Ohio to do battle with the Findlay Oilers. The only word that can possibly describe the Findlay game is "MUD".

In their most impressive performance of the season, the Titans rolled to a 28-0 victory.

The victory enabled the Titans to advance to the semi-final game to be held in Tacome, Washington.

Ed Daley sneaks thru a whole in the line to pick up additional yardage.

The semi-final game is not an unfamiliar situation for the Titans to be in, especially for the seniors who have returned for three consecutive years. However, the saying "third times a charm" was not the case this year.

Traveling cross-country to take on Pacific Lutheran University, was quite an experience for the Titans. The Titans fought down to the wire, but time ran out with the score of 16-13.

Despite the disappointing ending, the Titans upheld the winning Westminster tradition and provided the fans with many exciting Saturday afternoons.

Harriers improve to place Second in NAIA District 18 Meet

The cross country team finished their season with a winning record of 6-3-1, completely reversing their 1982 record of 3-6-1.

The thin-clads started the season with a victory over Duquesne University, but then went into a tailspin and lost three consecutive meets.

The Titans, led by Mike Logan and Bob Ostrowski, put together a five meet winning streak with victories over arch rivals Geneva, Grove City, and NCAA Division I Youngstown State University. The Titans rounded out the regular season with another victory over Youngstown.

The Titans took second place in the NAIA District 18 meet, and Mike Logan placed fifth overall. This enabled him to be invited to the national meet in Parkside, Wisconsin, where he finished 304th.

Coach Galbreath was pleased with the team, and is expecting another good season next year.

Life in the Fast Lane

The Swim Team finished their season with a record of 6-7. Six of the team's swimmers did exceptional jobs and made it to the NAIA National Qualifying Meet. Senior Gerald Nappi, the team Captain, was the leading scorer this season with 118 points. Total team points were 563. Coach Nicholson felt Nappi had an excellent career at Westminster, he helped establish six school records and was also named to the All-American Team each of his four years. This year, in the Nationals, he placed fourth in the 200 meter butterfly.

Other teammates participating in Nationals were Juniors Dave Farner and Mike Fenno, Sophomore Bruce Tomasello, and Freshman Brian Titus and John Rial. Farner was also named to the Academic All-American list for his athletic and scholarly accomplishments.

Coach Nicholson felt that the season was a successful one, and that several young prospects promise that success will again come to the Westminster Swim Team next season.

Following the bouncing ball with the TOWER OF POWER

The season began with great optimism. There were seven returning lettermen from a 16-10 squad, including four seniors from the 1981-82 District Title Team. Now, add three prize recruits and the Titans are ready for the new challenging season.

In the opener, the Titans battled the University of Pittsburgh, a Division I opponent, only to be turned back 86-56. The Titans then proceeded to win five of its next six games to finish 1983 at 5-2.

The month of January proved to be a productive month with Westminster going 7-3. Included in the record was an exciting overtime victory over Allegheny College, to capture the championship at the Allegheny College Tournament in Meadville, Pennsylvania. Also, Craig Randall was named Most Valuable Player of the tournament.

However, during the month of January there were several setbacks, a dismal loss to La Roche College and the loss of Herb Luckey due to his expiring eligibility, added to the gloom. Luckey's loss was crucial to the team, for he had been a four year standout.

Tower of Power

The lowest point in the season came when the Titans dropped four consecutive games in the beginning of February. The season looked bleak, but an exciting comeback victory at St. Vincent sparked by Don Hennon, Rob Killmer, Dave Richards, and Craig Randall seemed to revive the Titans. They finished strong beating Waynesburg and Geneva, two district rivals in the last two weeks of the season.

After the regular season, the Titans headed into the playoffs on an upbeat. Westminster dusted St. Vincent in the opener, then won a thrilling double-overtime victory on its homecourt against Pitt-Bradford in the semi-finals. The season came to an end with a disappointing loss at Waynesburg in the finals. The 59-52 loss ended the season with a record of 17-11.

Post season honors included the naming of Craig Randall to the NAIA All-American Honorable Mention list and Dave Richards to the Academic All-American list.

Going for the Green

The Golf team had another exceptional year. They posted an impressive 6-2 regular season record. They won the NAIA District 18 tournament, and earned the right to travel to the NAIA National Tournament in Saginaw, Michigan.

During the course of the season, Eric Easton won the Titan's Myrtle Beach Tournament. Also, Jim Lynch tied a course record with a 33 on the back nine at Burning Ridge Country Club.

The Titans had eight athletes receive letters. Jim Joye received his fourth letter in as many years.

District 18 Champs

The Men's Tennis team returned from a dismal 4-8 season in 1982 to post an impressive 11-2 record. This earned them a birth in the NAIA National Tournament.

Coach Fusco awarded seven varsity letters to his District 18 Champs. Heading the list of lettermen were Bill Bailey, District singles champion, and Geoff Dalglish, Bailey's doubles partner. This duo captured the District doubles championship.

The Titans also captured four points before being eliminated in the National Tournament in Kansas City, Missouri.

District 18 Champs!

Once again, the Lady Titan Softball Team finished their season with success. With an overall record of 10-5, they were champions of the NAIA District 18 and Co-Champions of the Women's Keystone Conference. Coach Christy said he was very happy with these accomplishments. Despite the fact that they were plagued by rain, the Team developed sharpness quickly.

Several players were recognized for their achievements this year. Dawn Fenlock, Lisa Dueringer, Joni Minarcin, and Tracy Ess were all named to the NAIA District 18 First Team. Those recognized by the Women's Keystone Conference were Dueringer, Ess, and Brenda Ash, and Kathy Travers for the Second Team. Travers was also the teams leading hitter and Dueringer was voted most valuable player by her teammates.

Champs!

The only senior on the team this year was Captain Jonie Minarcin. Christy felt that Minarcin was an excellent player who has steadily improved during her four years here. Minarcin has the outstanding achievement of starting every game of her four year career, playing in 71 consecutive games. Coach Christy was very pleased with Jonie's contributions throughout her career, calling her the team's "bulwark at second base".

Christy felt it was also important to mention the achievements of freshmen Carol Marsteller, who was the teams leading hitter with a .383 batting average. She was also the first baseman. Christy felt her play has shown consistent improvement during the season.

As for the future, Christy seems hopeful, with nine of this years ten letter winners returning. The team should have a solid foundation on which to build success.

Track Team gets New Head Coach

The Titan track team finished their season with a 2 1-1 record under the direction of head coach Dave Frohman. This is the first year as head coach for Coach Frohman.

The Titans had an impressive win over Robert Morris College racking up a total of 101 points to their 35. The Titans won every event except the javelin and the 800-meter run.

Also, at the Bethany meet, the Titans scored 114 point to Bethany's 26 point. The tie came at the hands of rival Geneva College.

Strong Start Runs

Out of Steam.

The Titan baseball team had a season that had both its ups and its downs. The team started out the season by winning eight of their first ten games. But, the season was all down hill from that point on.

The Titan mitters traveled to Washington, D.C. for their Spring Trip. However, the Titans dropped a 5-3 decision to the Naval Academy.

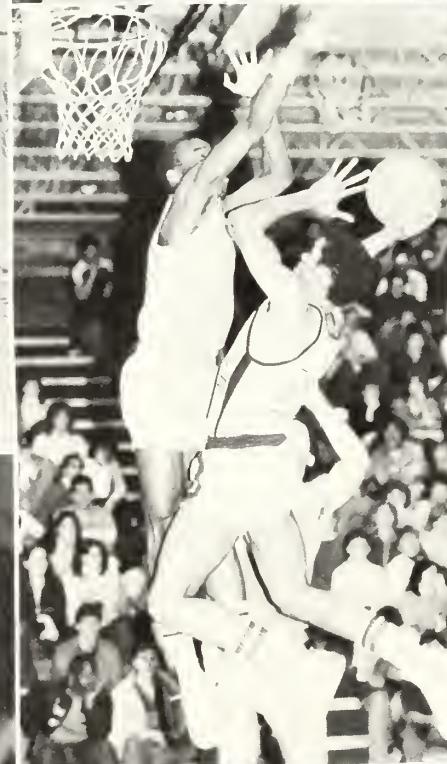

Doug Meiser, Scott Higgins, and Greg Mencini, all had outstanding seasons at the plate, batting, .428, .414, and .390 respectively.

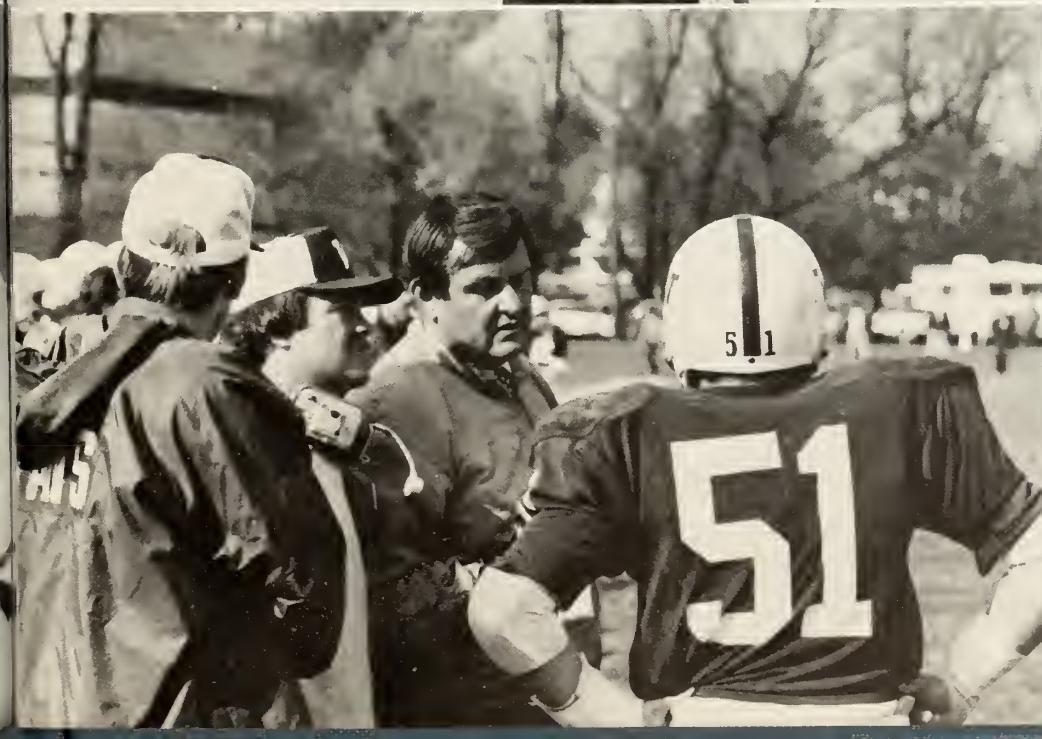

Scott Moesta ended the season with a respectable record of five wins and two losses. The titans were eliminated in the first round of the District 18 playoffs to end the season with a 13-10 overall record.

The Glory of Triumphs

Although the trials were many, the triumphs were great. For some, the past four years have flown by without notice, while others counted the days until graduation. But, all have the memories and friendships that Westminster has brought to treasure forever.

As this chapter closes, a new chapter begins to unfold. Each having to face more trials throughout the years to come.

Turning Trials Into Triumphs

The chapter has ended in our stay at Westminster for this year. For some, this chapter is just one of many; for others, it is the last. It is with our friends and acquaintances that we have shared our many trials and triumphs.

We have come a long way, scared at first, we learned about rejection from the dateless nights and the disappointment of not making the Greek system. We have lost games, flunked exams, been busted, and received fines. But with each scrape, we have found the strength to lift ourselves up higher than before, continuing on wiser and able to triumph over more of the trials that repeatedly knock at the door.

We have found triumphs; we have entered romance and found a special group of friends. We have won the games, aced the tests, and made residence staff.

As we finish the chapter or close the book, we are able to look back upon the year as a beginning. We will soar above our trials and make them into our triumphs.

A view of the tower room in Old Main.

A black and white photograph of a park scene. In the foreground, there is a paved path or walkway. To the left, a large tree trunk is visible. In the center, there is a small, low-lying bush or shrub. The background shows a path leading into a wooded area with several trees. A building, possibly a house or a small pavilion, is visible through the trees in the distance.
